

Subject: : SmartFileSystem

Topic: : Strange things are happening...SFS2

Re: Strange things are happening...SFS2

Author: : broadblues

Date: : 2009/6/2 15:14:47

URL:

@xenic

I think 512 block for sfs is the optimum value, not the compulsory one. That is other block sizes will work but less efficiently. Ideally you wouldn't set up a partition inefficiently but there no need to worry if you did by accident.