

Subject: : Unsatisfactory Software

Topic: : XMP 3.0 [solved]

Re: XMP 3.0

Author: : Chris

Date: : 2009/12/28 20:23:26

URL:

@kas1e

Aminet is easier to upload to and has more redundancy. If I only upload to one place, I can keep track of versions, and with Aminet I can upload 68k builds as well.

If I start uploading things to OS4Depot I lose track of which versions are where, or it doubles the amount of work I have to do on releases. I have no problem with others uploading my stuff to OS4Depot, but I won't usually do it myself and downloaders should be aware that it isn't necessarily the latest version.

In this case there has been a glitch, but the first one in over ten years of uploading to Aminet isn't bad.