

Subject: : Timberwolf

Topic: : Have a look in OS4Depot Uploads - Timberwolf Released

Re: Have a look in OS4Depot Uploads - Timberwolf Released

Author: : Rogue

Date: : 2010/6/9 16:00:42

URL:

@nubechecorre

Quote:

nubechecorre wrote:

@Rogue

WoW! to be an Alpha is fast and well usable here on my sam 😊, i have also seen that you update your site too 😊 nice look now 😊

I am really impressed by your work 😊

Thanks and keep up with the good work 😊

There's a lot of work left to be done. Quite a bit of the UI depends on correct subwindow rendering, which currently doesn't work most of the time. As Thom already wrote in the release notes, the rendering code has a bit of an issue (I started it way before I know the subtleties of the rendering engine's concept) and needs a large rewrite, but that sounds more dramatic than it is really, since a lot of work was not writing code but understanding how it is supposed to work.

If you look closely, you will sometimes see parts of the window go completely black for a moment, there's a lot of overdraw going on in the refresh code, things like that will have to go, making the whole affair noticeably faster. Plus, there is no hardware acceleration whatsoever yet.