TimberWolf in current release absolutly unusable, and even OS4 version of OWB are better than TW, in terms of speed, stability and alt. When TW will be stable, and without such very visibly bugs (like wrong rendering of menus at all), then, we can be happy, but not now.

It is possible that there is no one that want to try to compile it?

For me everything points on MUI knowlege. I know nothing about. But still, maybe will be better to try to compile, and post all the problems to forum, and step by step it can be done..

Did you have your linux+crosscompiler setup native, or over vmware/etc ?
