

Subject: : OWB

Topic: : I have some good news, 98% of OWB compiles in cygwin :-)

Re: I have some good news, 98% of OWB compiles in cygwin :-)

Author: : joerg

Date: : 2010/8/31 9:24:14

URL:

@kas1e

Quote:

But i think that QtWebKit will be only for AmyCygrix => owb still will won.

AmiCygrix will add some rendering overhead, but except for scrolling it shouldn't be noticable since layout, javascript, etc., needs most CPU time, rendering the final results into the window needs next to none. Unlike OWB it's still developped and with something like Arora you'd get a web browser for computers and not just a very limited cell phone/settop box browser like OWB.

@Slayer

Quote:

Besides, I said I'd donate again remember? where do I send that cash now?

To someone porting a web browser to AmigaOS, for example the Friedens for Timberwolf.