Just a question, is there any particular reason to prefer MUI in place of Reaction for such type of app ?

I think that using Reaction your application may integrate better with the system especially if (in any future) Hyperion decides to include it into AmigaOS4

MUI is used because that is what is currently used by my portable GUI system (which is part of Portable r6) to generate the GUI from it's abstract description. When I get around to writing a Reaction back-end for my portable GUI system, AmiSystemRestore will automagically use Reaction instead of MUI 😊

Thanks to the few who have PMed offering to help beta-test. I will be getting back to you sometime this coming week.
