First post from Timberwolf RC1. Working very nicely now , albeit a bit sluggish still and the menus being inside the window still annoys me somewhat as they don't work the way I'm used to on AmigaOS.

Both Ubuntu and OSX has menus outside the window with Firefox so I guess the biggest problem would probably be getting around the intuition limits on menu nesting (intuition only allows one level of submenus while Firefox needs at least one more level) and how many items/subitems you can have in a menu/submenu. Hopefully intuition will be improved to remove these limits.
