Med worked for me, you might have some other plug that starts instead of UADE plugin.

Good point. If the "Type" column in TuneNet says something else than "UADE" then there is a conflicting plugin that needs to be moved from "TuneNet/Plugins" to "TuneNet/Disabled Plugins" and TuneNet restarted if you want them to be handled by UADE.

And also the assign need to be correct

Assign uade: volum:*/uade-2.13/uade

Only the uade-2.13/uade directory is really meant to be installed. That's why the readme refers to the "uade" directory and not "uade-2.13" in the installation instructions. Anyway I'll try to remember to make an updated release of UADE with an Install script that takes care of all this when I release the plugin and updated uade sources.
