too early to worry for bugs - firstly native build blah.. ) is exactly in opposite now : morphos coders(itix) help us with os4 bugs. project for all oses, os4 in the list the same as any other os. there is no os4 programmers who somehow differnt as other ones.

@voodoo

i just organaze and annoy ppls, pluse some very easy codework, the harder part in lasr days done by itix, for us. its bad to scream now how good os4 coders are. more right now will be say "its good that morphos coder itix with us" . besides, you should know - the more of that "os4 true teh omg!" , the less ppls from aros and mos will help. doh !)

plan is: native libs - beta test, native bins - betatest, native modules - betatest. then first native full release. once all the same as original, no bugs, etc, then those impotrnt features about icons, 2gb,long names,etc and maybe some eye candy in meantime (like good looking gadgets, mousewheel, scrollbars, etc)
