Just to watch YouTube videos ?

Of course not, but youtube is too, as well. Bunch of sites now use html5 in all of their parts. While Flash was kind of sucky idea and we can skip it right now and never worry anymore about, html5 is good and will be used everywhere soon or later. Skipping that mean have half-working browsers. For newbes its very important thing, too.

Personally I never knew why a browser should have any animation or video.

:) Or what is better: i never knew why we need anything more than just assembler, notepad and shell. Or a car, while we have a legs :)
