@ChrisH

The machine was lent to me and came with no adaptor. I still may have one at home, so as the worst thing I'll need to wait until after X-mas.

I'm wondering whether the signal coming out of your SAM could somehow be out of range or otherwise incompatible with what your monitor wants from VGA.

That is possible. When I get access to a better monitor to be able to at least display something, I'll try tweaking the screenmode settings.
