I think "Latest Nightly Debug Builds" or "Latest Nightly Beta Builds" would be better. The overnight builds are usually stable.

Done.

Currently i fixing aros-specific moments: i use old cross compiler for arm, but forced to use new one for i386, and, it have some things changes, so i need a bit adapt code in libinit of library/modules in aros part to make all compiles. Probably today will do so.

Then will make os3 cross-compiler as well (hope tomorrow).
